We have identified the need for some young people displaying behavioural and emotional problems requiring assessments at short notice. As a result of our cross-company working groups, I&A Services has been specifically created within CTC to address this need.

Within our network we already have a number of specialist Social, Emotional or Behavioural Difficulties (SEBD) services but I&A provides immediate placement opportunities with a full assessment package.

I&A Services has a team of skilled individuals who understand the approaches to take when addressing extreme behaviours.

Our experienced therapy, education and care team have all worked with young people in crisis in the past and are fully aware of the challenges this presents.

“Our unique service provides young people with a high-quality placement.”

Structured around a programme of education, outdoor pursuits and personal development, I&A’s model is the result of combined ideas, experiences and expertise.

Having seen these strategies work before within our EBD teams, we have modified our offering to reflect the immediate needs of individuals. We ensure the best practice from our EBD teams’ successes with young people in crisis are delivered in the most appropriate manner.

Our unique service provides young people with a high-quality placement that isn’t a stopping place but the start of a permanent plan for their future.
